

Good Morning

WHAT'S GOING ON AND WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

BEST BET

• COME BLOW YOUR HORN: What's 12 feet long and sounds like something from a Swiss cough drop commercial? Answer: the alphorn. You can hear it live during the Mainly Mozart Festival's 8 p.m. concerts Saturday at downtown San Diego's Spreckels Theatre and Sunday at the California Center for the Arts, Escondido. Italian alphorn virtuoso (yes, there is such a thing) Carlo Torlontano will be featured in the "Sinfonia Pastorella" by Leopold Mozart, Wolfgang's father. It will be part of programs conducted by David Atherton that will also include Schubert's Symphony No. 1 and Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 5, with violinist William Preucil. Tickets cost $18 to $48 downtown San Diego; $28 to $35 in Escondido. (619) 239-0100.
